

The Leader's Code

The Hero Within

Roundtable Discussion #1

For most people, their work is not just work. It is something of great importance. It expresses and supports the purpose of their lives.

[Chapter 1, Page 1]

The Leader's Code

The Hero Within

Roundtable Discussion #2

We want the time we spend and the lives we live to matter. All human beings share two basic needs: the need to be valued and the need to make sense out of things.

[Chapter 1, Page 2]

The Leader's Code

The Fool's Errand

Roundtable Discussion #3

You're at your best when you believe you matter. You bring extra energy to the place you work and the people you work with when your efforts are appreciated and valued.

[Chapter 2, Page 13]

The Leader's Code

The Leader Within

Roundtable Discussion #4

Self-sabotage occurs when we overlook our own best interest. It is acting against what is best for us. As a result, we usually destroy what we want most – to be trusted and respected.

[Chapter 3, Pages 16 & 17]

The Leader's Code

The Leader Within

Roundtable Discussion #5

It is direction, not intent, that determines destination! People need to know where they're going and have a clear map for getting there.

[Chapter 3, Page 19]

The Leader's Code

The Leader Within

Roundtable Discussion #6

How much I value myself determines how faithful I will be to my own beliefs and principles. How much I value myself determines how much I value others. How much I value others determines the strength of the human connections that I form.

[Chapter 3, Pages 20 & 21]